

Josh Howie

A young Woody Allen

Kate Copstick, The Scotsman

Excellent, intelligent stand-up...terrific

Time Out

Josh is an ex-public schoolboy, raised as a Buddhist who then trained as a Rabbi before being kicked off the programme for being caught with a naked (non-Jewish) girl, so perhaps it was inevitable that he would go on to become a stand-up comedian. Josh integrated these stories into his hugely successful debut solo Fringe stand up show, entitled Chosen which played to sell out audiences and received rave reviews at the 2008 Edinburgh Festival followed by a sell out run at the Soho Theatre.

Already a familiar face on the comedy circuit, Josh performs regularly in London at clubs such as Up The Creek, Banana Cabaret, Comedy Store, Jongleurs, Bearcat, Red Rose and King's Head and around the UK for the likes of Off The Kerb, Comedy Clubs Ltd, The Stand, Just the Tonic and the Union of Jewish Students, proving himself to be a massive hit at comedy clubs, universities and private functions alike.

Josh has also been filmed for the Paramount Comedy shows 'World Stands Up' and 'Comedy Blue' and can currently be seen as the presenter of 'Indie Close Up', the Sky Movies show that offers all the latest news in the world of indie cinema.

The rest of his CV reads like an accomplished media industry veteran. Not only has Josh worked as a roving reporter for The Studio News, as a writer/presenter on The Indie 500 (both previously on The Studio on NTL), started his own PR firm when he was just 16, received critical acclaim for his writing and direction of a short film for Channel 4, he has also had a number of senior roles at a variety of music video production companies. Most notably, at 24, he was the youngest person ever to be appointed as Head of Video in the London office of PARTISAN, working with the likes of Armand Van Helden, Fatboy Slim and Placebo.

He has, of course, now reached an age where he has realised it is time to settle down and get a proper job: as a stand-up comedian.

Intelligently neurotic

Bruce Dessau, Evening Standard

Howie is engaging company

The Times

"Headline comedy came from Josh Howie, bringing the evening to a close with howls of laughter and the occasional "oooh" that accompanies a joke that you're just not sure is socially acceptable but makes you laugh regardless"

Edinburgh Evening News

"Challenging, intelligent wit...as funny as it is fascinating"

Chortle

"Bellylaughs"

The Scotsman

On Josh's 2008 debut Fringe solo show, *Josh Howie: Chosen

He is a very smart and hugely sophisticated writer; pulling the interesting facts from his life, then mixing honesty and wit, and only then garnishing it with punchlines

Steve Bennett, Chortle ******

It's refreshing to see someone like Howie tell a wider story about his life while taking comic opportunities at every turn

Independent ******

Josh Howie walks the potentially trip-wired ground of race and religious identity with Diamond-sharp wit and no small degree of daring. It's fiercely intelligent, delivered with verve and you can expect to see a lot more of Howie in the future.

Observer

A great selection of clever one-liners

Broadway Baby ******

Howie is intelligent but not intimidatingly so.

He's a fabulous storyteller who can make you concentrate in silence then erupt into a fit of giggles. He's slick, he's quick and he's incredibly playful with words.

Metro *******

Howie is a name to watch

The Times

Sharply drawn self-deprecating stories, plus a too-much-information re-birthing anecdote, are given added oomph by accompanying photos and Howie's nervy comedic delivery. This is a very good hour.

**** Evening Standard

Extremely funny

The List

An intensely personal hour of close-to-the-bone stand-up.

**** Mail on Sunday

Great things are expected from the abrasive yet strangely lovable Josh Howie.

The Guardian

Howie is an intelligent comedian who knows how to amuse, shock and move an audience in equal measures.

Time Out

Howie is an intelligent comedian with daring material which is consistently very funny indeed.

Fest ******

A fascinating tale

Three Weeks

As a piece of writing it is quite literally breathtaking Terrifyingly funny.

*Howie is a charming, diffident, articulate man with a show that is as fascinating as it is funny.
He is a terrific talent*

Kate Copstick, The Scotsman

Howie rips through liberalism and religion with panache
Scotland on Sunday

Key Facts:

Acting age: 25 – 35

Height: 5'11"

Build: Slim/Average

Voice: Clear, bold, considered, pensive, crisp
